

ATLANTA MISSION 2022 ANNUAL REPORT

*Joyfully
Celebrate*

Dear Friends,

As I look back on 2022, I'm in awe of what God has done, both in my life and at Atlanta Mission. I began my work as President/CEO in July, not really knowing what to expect. I was greeted with open arms and smiles by staff, volunteers, and donors, for which I am immensely grateful. Thank you for welcoming me into the Atlanta Mission family.

It is fitting that this year's annual report theme is "Joyfully Celebrate". Working with men, women, and children who have undergone immense trauma on a daily basis can be emotionally taxing, yet there is so much joy at each of our campuses. Whenever I go to My Sister's House or Restoration House, there are kids laughing and playing together on the playground. At The Shepherd's Inn, I see men smiling and chatting as they eat lunch together. At The Potter's House, staff and men undergoing recovery play baseball together.

You see, at the heart of our Transformation Model is the joy that comes from experiencing God's life-changing grace. In Greek, the word translated to rejoice is χαίρω, chairó, (Khah'-ee-ro) which means to be "favorably disposed to God's grace". It is very similar to the words that are translated to "grace" and "joy." This puts a whole new meaning on the word rejoice, or celebrate. It's not just "showing great delight in something" (dictionary definition) but to experience God's grace. At Atlanta Mission, we joyfully celebrate throughout each client's journey, from when they walk in the door to when they graduate Atlanta Mission @Work with a career and new direction for their life.

God is present here, restoring lives and providing hope for the future. In the last year, we have served 2,165 men, women, and children experiencing homelessness. Each of these people have been treated with dignity, called by their name, and celebrated as they take courageous steps to a new life in Christ.

We could not do this critical work without you. Thank you for your partnership, prayers, and generosity. I hope you share in our joy as you look through this annual report. Finally, "may the God of hope fill you with all joy and peace in believing, so that by the power of the Holy Spirit you may abound in hope." -Romans 15:13 ESV

Gratefully,

Tensley Almand
President & CEO

"At the heart of our Transformation Model is the joy that comes from experiencing God's life-changing grace."

-TENSLEY ALMAND,
PRESIDENT & CEO

Thank you.

"A thing of beauty is a joy forever; its loveliness increases; it will never pass into nothingness."

-JOHN KEATS

*Joyfully
Celebrate*

Always be full of joy in the Lord. I say it again – rejoice!

Let everyone see that you are considerate in all you do. Remember, the Lord is coming soon. Don't worry about anything; instead, pray about everything. Tell God what you need, and thank him for all he has done. Then you will experience God's peace, which exceeds anything we can understand. His peace will guard your hearts and minds as you live in Christ Jesus.

-PHILIPPIANS 4:4-7 NLT

Let us Rejoice!

Most of us feel a sense of heaviness and sadness when we turn on the news and see all that is going on in the world. Conflicts, persecution, hunger, loneliness can all be overwhelming. Closer to home, we see hungry and hurting men, women, and children on the streets of Atlanta asking for our help.

It's hard for many of us to imagine being in their shoes. The trauma that many people experiencing homelessness go through affects every area of their lives. Researchers found that 85% of women and 77% of men experiencing homelessness have been exposed to at least one traumatic event in their lives (vs 50% mean in non-homeless population). It is not enough to simply provide emergency services such as meals and shelter.

To be successful, there must be a focus on building healthy, trusted relationships with clients such that individuals are willing to be vulnerable and share their trauma experiences. At Atlanta Mission, we design trauma-informed strategies and spaces that inspire clients to engage and ultimately address the multiple facets of sustainable recovery – mental, vocational, relational, physical and spiritual.

God has called us to provide hope to those who are searching. A major component of providing hope is joyfully celebrating each small step that a client takes. One of our Atlanta Mission values is Joyfully Celebrate. We aim to intentionally celebrate and recognize all that God is doing in and through our staff, clients, and community.

In this annual report, you will read about how we rejoice in each phase of clients' journeys, from when they take that first courageous step to enter our doors, to Celebration Thursdays and Fridays, to graduation ceremonies at @Work, to moving out, and celebrating one year of employment at our Great Wall ceremony. We have so much joy because we get to see God's incredible grace each day in the faces of those we serve. Thank you for joining us as we celebrate all that God has done, is doing, and will do.

CHRIST-CENTERED

We desire all who engage with us to Know, Live, and Walk for Christ.

Our Values

Joyfully Celebrate

We intentionally appreciate and recognize all that God is doing in and through our staff, clients, and community.

COURAGEOUSLY INNOVATE

Driven to excellence, we continuously learn, adapt, and improve.

STRENGTH IN UNITY

We embrace God's desire for oneness and kingdom-focused unity.

HUMBLY SERVE

We strive to Live, Love, and Lead like Jesus.

FAITHFULLY STEWARD

We honor and wisely use the Time, Talent, and Treasures God has provided.

Client Progression

BY THE NUMBERS

Our Transformation Model seeks to best meet the needs of a diverse population, walking with them on a journey to security, stability, and sustainability. We have structured this work into three distinct phases in order to maximize support for the client and increase milestones and celebration of success. We strive daily for innovation, and continually pioneer successful new approaches to serve Atlanta's most vulnerable, leveraging a groundbreaking Transformation Model which addresses both physical and relational poverty.

TRANSFORMATION MODEL STAGES

401
Individuals
Ended
Homelessness

The Bible talks a couple of times about milestones and mile-markers to remember where God has brought you, where you have been and where you are going. For our clients (and staff!) the road to the final destination can be daunting and seem at times unattainable. And quite frankly all of our clients don't make it. In contrast however, it's important to remember all of the progress clients have made along the way. It's important for clients to see the progress they are making day by day so they can stay focused on the ultimate goal of leaving with stable employment and long term housing. The long term goal is so far away that the big and small celebrations are important to keep one another motivated. It also can be the encouragement for someone else on the verge of giving up.

& CHILDREN'S SERVICES/

Walking Through the Door

Story of Hope: Allison

Allison and her five-year-old daughter, Sasha, were the first to walk through the doors of Restoration House on its opening day. They were in complete awe that God would build and open this place just for them.

Earlier in the day, Allison was crying at a public storage unit. When another woman asked her if she was okay, she told the lady that she and her daughter had nowhere to stay. The woman told her about a place where she had once stayed, called My Sister's House, and told her to call there. Allison told the staff when she arrived "I didn't expect this beautiful building and warm welcome!"

Eight women were scheduled to come in that day, but Allison and her daughter are the only ones that showed up. While it wasn't what we planned; it was exactly what God had planned. It was a tangible reminder to us all that Jesus loved us so much that he still would have died even if it was for one person. Today, Allison and her daughter got to experience the love that He has for the one, which really is what all of us are to him. Allison cried as she walked through the building, amazed by how beautiful it was and that someone would build it for her and her daughter.

As we sat around the table and ate dinner together, she shared how she was so scared coming in, but kept trying to tell her daughter how much fun it would be. She had no idea that it actually would be fun, and that her daughter would get both her favorite foods in one day: Chick-fil-A and pepperoni pineapple pizza. She said she felt safe and secure for the first time in a long time and felt like she could breathe again.

For so many of the men, women, and children we serve, coming through our front doors is an act of courage. They are scared and don't know what to expect. Many have never been in a shelter environment before, or some have had terrible experiences at shelters. The first step to recovery and a new life is often the hardest. This is why we joyfully celebrate each client as they Find Hope and Choose Help.

Though not all individuals facing homelessness are mentally ill, most have suffered extreme trauma, either early in life, or as a result of the stress of homelessness. Not knowing where you and your children will sleep at night or where your next meal will come from weighs heavily on your spirit. These traumas can make it hard to trust others, which in turn makes it even more scary to enter our doors and trust our staff.

At Restoration House, our newest campus for women and their children facing homelessness, we honor clients each week at a ceremony called Celebration Thursdays. We begin by celebrating God and all He has done through a worship song, a devotional, and prayer. Once we celebrate the reason why we are even able to be here, we then move on to celebrating each other. We recognize the new clients that have come in that week by calling them by name, presenting them with a Bible, and cheering for them. After we celebrate those who are new, we then celebrate the women who have made the courageous decision to commit to Make Progress, the next step in our program. These ladies are also acknowledged by name, and as they come to the front, we give them a thunderous applause and a prayer journal for their next steps of the journey.

"Being intentional about joyfully celebrating allows us to reflect on all of God's goodness and all He has done," shares Jennifer Hutchinson, Campus Director of Restoration House. "Without Christ, none of the life change that happens at Restoration House is possible and therefore we always want to maintain a heart of gratitude."

What triggers homelessness?

Making Progress

After clients complete the Find Hope and Choose Help phases of our program, they enter the Make Progress phase, in which they work through a customized journey designed to provide hope and end their homelessness.

We joyfully celebrate clients by welcoming them to My Sister's House or The Shepherd's Inn at Celebration Friday. It is here that we set the tone for them to get accustomed to being celebrated. Each Celebration Friday, we also empower clients to celebrate themselves and their accomplishments. In addition, we create opportunities within classes and interaction with staff to be able to love on our clients to celebrate the steps they take in their transformation.

"We celebrate when clients reach the milestones on their Make Progress goals," shared Kim Livsey, Vice President of Women and Children's Services / Clinical Director. "We celebrate new salvations and baptisms at local churches. We celebrate getting jobs and finding housing."

"We have also been known to celebrate the little things, such as that call to a mom or daughter after a year of not talking, being in cancer remission, and breaking out in a Stevie Wonder version of Happy Birthday. We want clients to know there is so much they are doing right and all of the little steps are what's going to get them to the ultimate goal: life transformation."

It is important to joyfully celebrate because as transformation occurs, it draws us closer to God and His purpose for us. Joyfully celebrating also gives our clients the encouragement and support to keep going. The path of transformation is filled with highs and lows, so it is critical that we take time to acknowledge and celebrate all that God is doing no matter the magnitude.

-Felicia Maxwell,

MAKE PROGRESS SERVICES LEADER AT MY SISTER'S HOUSE

Beginning in June 2019, Atlanta Mission partnered with Cara Collective, a leading Chicago-based workforce development enterprise, to integrate their vocational training and job placement model. Our implementation of their model is called Atlanta Mission @Work. We train men and women in the following soft skills so they can both obtain and retain a job: time management, communication, professionalism, conflict management, and teamwork.

@Work is important for our clients and the community because it specializes in workforce development for people who are ready to lift themselves out of poverty and homelessness. We do this through innovative personal and professional skills training and access to employment opportunities. Coupled with Cara Collective's workforce training and curriculum, and Atlanta Mission's proven model for ending homelessness, the Atlanta Mission @Work program has been able to impact the community through empowerment and self-sustainability.

THE @WORK TRAINING PROGRAM

Workshop on Job Searching - One week
(Monday - Thursday, 9:00 am - 2:30 pm)

Transformations - Three weeks
(Monday - Thursday, 9:00 am - 2:30 pm)

Job Search - Lasts until you begin working
(Monday - Thursday, 9:00 am - 2:30 pm)

Employment Phase - Retention begins and a coach supports you for one year.

Alumni Phase - You're invited to stay in contact with Atlanta Mission and to become a mentor.

"Ring the Bell!"

If a client is presented with an offer letter for employment, accepts the offer, and their job search coach approves that it meets our program criteria, the client can "Ring the Bell" during our Morning Motivation Meetings. The client stands during a special part of Motivations, shares brief information about the job and that they have accepted it, to which the entire room claps and shouts "RING THE BELL, RING THE BELL". We encourage them to ring it so the entire building can hear the joyous noise of someone gaining employment.

Corporate Partner

Marriott

It has been a pleasure working with Marriott as an @Work Corporate Partner. One of the greatest benefits Marriott is able to provide Atlanta Mission @Work is the variety in careers. With clients having a wide range of skills, education and experience, employment needs can vary tremendously. We have placed 13 clients in roles such as housekeeping, front desk, maintenance, and as events coordinators.

It is always our goal to place clients in the best job that fits their experience, skills and interests. One recent client had a passion for and experience in the movie industry in set design. However, many of those jobs are not permanent or full time and do not fit the @Work requirements for a living and stable wage. The client was able to obtain permanent full-time work at Marriott in a Special Event Coordinator role, meeting both @Work requirements and his own career goals!

The Marriott is known for the excellence they provide to guests, and that excellence extends to how employees are treated. When connecting a client to employment at Marriott, we have confidence that they have a great experience and are in good hands. If and when there is a challenge to work through, we have worked together to best meet both the client and employers’ needs. We love seeing our @Work graduates flourish in their careers, especially at Marriott.

What are Corporate Partners and why are they critical to the success of the Atlanta Mission @Work program?

We often refer to Corporate Partners as Employment Partners. They are companies and organizations who partner with Atlanta Mission @Work to help fill employment vacancies. Think of it as a natural extension of their talent aquisition team. We help find the best candidate fit, handpicked from our @Work talent pool.

We understand...

the partner’s needs, what kind of candidate they are looking for, and who would be a great fit. We also work with clients to create a job search plan. We reach out to corporate partners, sharing the client’s resume and how they would be a great fit. We also assist in preparing for the interview by providing mock interviews, professional clothing, resume writing support, and MARTA passes.

I think it's important to joyfully celebrate and encourage our men to keep going forward. They have worked hard, and are getting close to the finish line, so we try to encourage them to keep going by celebrating their accomplishments.

-Pastor Mike,
TRANSITIONAL HOUSING LEADER
AT THE SHEPHERD'S INN

Moving Out

When clients have completed the goals they made at the beginning of Make Progress— maintaining a steady income, fostering a supportive community, and finding safe housing— they are celebrated at a graduation and are considered “move-out ready”.

At Fuqua Hall, our transitional housing campus for men, we make sure to joyfully celebrate clients often. We provide cleaning items in their rooms when they move in to celebrate their move and to encourage their independent living. The first Tuesday of the month, in our Fuqua Hall Community Meeting, we celebrate birthdays, new client move ins and new beginnings when clients move out. Clients that move out receive a “Welcome Home” basket of items for their new home.

When women at My Sister’s House graduate and move into their own place, they are provided with important items for their new home from the “Homecoming Closet”, such as pots, pans, utensils, lamps, bedding, towels, and more. This closet is kept stocked by our gracious friends in The Circle of Sisters, a group of women who are passionate about volunteering with our women and children.

A job and a house are not the only outcomes for the men and women we serve, and our clients’ transformation does not stop once they move into permanent housing. The goal of our services is that our clients would sustain the changes made in their time with us, and also continue to grow. This type of growth requires community support and nourishment. We support our clients so they become thriving members of our community.

Story of Hope: Carletta

Every morning, Carletta wakes up early to do a devotional. She is grateful to be living in her very own apartment where she can watch the sunrise while she prepares for work. When she arrives at the preschool, she is greeted with smiles and shouts of “Miss Carletta!” by the young children. Carletta has been working as an early childhood teacher at Bright Horizons for the past year.

A year ago, however, things weren’t looking so bright for Carletta. She broke her foot at her teaching job, and wasn’t able to continue working. Without an income, she was not able to pay her rent. She has no family here in Atlanta to help her, so she made the difficult decision to come to My Sister’s House, Atlanta Mission’s campus for women and children.

After graduating from Make Progress, Carletta decided to enter the @Work program so she could prepare for job searching. “Carletta is an easy going, love to help in any way possible kind of person,” shares Simone Thomas, @Work Leader. “She always looks for opportunities to get to know someone and can relate to you with just about anything. I always love talking to her because she is so forthcoming about her personal experiences, challenges and growth. She has a big heart and simply loves helping others.”

Carletta began her job search feeling well-prepared and was soon hired by Bright Horizons. Her passion is teaching “little people”, which is what she has been doing since the early 1980s.

She lived at My Sister’s House and worked for six months until she had saved enough to move into her own apartment. Now, because of the @Work program, she is living independently and working in a field she loves. She is excited to take place in the next Great Wall Ceremony to celebrate being employed for over a year.

Great Wall

The Great Wall Ceremony is the moment all the @Work clients and staff have been waiting for. This is a time to celebrate becoming an alumnus of the @Work program because they have successfully made it one year on the job. During the ceremony, we highlight the cohort the client came through with, their current place of employment and their role there, highs and lows the client faced while going through our program, challenges faced on the job and how the client overcame them, ways the program helped prepare them for their job, successes on the job and any other words of encouragement. We cheer loudly for them to let them know we are so proud of what they have accomplished and who they have become.

Our alumni become the biggest inspiration for those clients who are earlier in their journey. When clients see alumni getting celebrated at the Great Wall Ceremony, they understand what they are working towards. The Great Wall Ceremony brings the whole client journey full cycle - with those who made it cheering on those who are still wondering if they can.

Celebrating Community

Our vision is "a community united to end homelessness, one person at a time." We cannot do this critical work without the support of our community. We are so grateful for our creative and generous partners, whose support allows us to serve our clients with excellence, dignity, and joy.

UPS

UPS has been a longtime partner to Atlanta Mission through volunteering, sponsoring events, and giving over $1.7M over the past 20 years.

In the past year alone, they have supported Atlanta Mission through grants, employee gift matching, and in-kind clothing drives. This past fall, when we were in dire need of professional attire for our @Work clients seeking employment, UPS SMART HUB delivered suits, ties, and dress shoes. We are truly grateful for their hearts for the men, women, and children we serve. UPS and The UPS Foundation are dedicated to removing systemic barriers so that people can thrive. "We constantly ask how we can provide the resources and the tools to those who have been disenfranchised, those who are underserved, and who are under-resourced," shares Patrick Smith, Community Relations Manager at UPS. "We partner with organizations like Atlanta Mission to help us do that. So with their strategic focus on bringing people from homelessness into stable living, that is a perfect match for us. As Nicole 'Nikki' Clifton, President of Social Impact and The UPS Foundation, would say, we do these things so that we can create a more equitable and just world."

Georgia
Power

"Atlanta Mission creates economic empowerment and helps people experiencing homelessness become self-sufficient," shares Rita Breen.

Georgia Power and the Georgia Power Foundation have been supporting Atlanta Mission for decades. Over the years they've supported several capital campaigns and many events, such as galas and golf outings. The Club of Hearts is the Employee Workplace Giving Program for the company. The Club of Hearts has supported Atlanta Mission as one of the many Club of Hearts partner agencies supported by employees through their financial contributions. Employees have also supported Atlanta Mission for more than ten years, partnering with them for numerous volunteer projects. Also, the Citizens of Georgia Power donated hundreds of clothing items during the fall's clothing drive.

"We are big fans of the benchmarking work done several years ago, which changed the models to not only provide housing and job training, but also helps people to truly integrate back into their communities," shares Rita Breen, Charitable Giving Executive Director at Georgia Power. "It is a comprehensive and evidence-based approach which is supporting underserved populations."

Beautiful
Curly Me

"We are thankful that so many of the girls in our care receive beautiful dolls that can help boost their self-esteem. "

Beautiful Curly Me was created when the founder, Zoe, was 6 years old with the help of her mom, Evana. Together they created dolls that represent the features, hair styles and colors of the black and brown community which was, and continues to be, underrepresented. Today she is 10 and just a few months ago became the youngest black TEDx speaker. Each year Zoe donates one doll for every girl in our shelters.

Stepping Stone Ministry

Stepping Stone Ministry has been a faithful partner to Atlanta Mission through sharing the Gospel and deepening relationships with the men we serve.

A longtime partner to Atlanta Mission for over five years, Stepping Stone is a ministry devoted to sharing the Gospel with all who are experiencing homelessness. This group faithfully taught Bible Study virtually throughout COVID to the men staying at The Shepherd's Inn. They returned to in-person Bible study in the summer of 2022 and taught twice per week. They also hosted a men's retreat last fall. "Stepping Stone Ministry has been such a blessing to us," shares Jenna Blankers, Volunteer Relationship Manager. "Their constant support and encouragement means a great deal to the men we serve."

Misty Creek Community Church

As the effort finishes its third year of support, Misty Creek and their community have provided Atlanta Mission locations with over 63,000 sack lunches.

Stemming from a desire to support the community during the COVID shutdowns, Misty Creek Community Church, located in Sandy Springs, launched their Sack Lunch Brigade. What started as an activation for their parishioners to serve safely from home evolved into weekly support from their local community, including non-members, to prepare thousands of sack lunches for shelters and community partners throughout the city. "They have been a shining example of helping others in the midst of hard times," shares Katrina Dantism, Director of Partnerships and Volunteer Services. "Six weeks into COVID lockdown, they began donating sack lunches to our men, women, and children. They have continued making and donating lunches since then. We are so incredibly grateful for their faithful partnership."

There is no power for change greater than a community discovering what it cares about.

-Margaret J. Wheatley

2022 Financials

We can't thank you enough. The generous gifts of friends and partners allow Atlanta Mission to care for the neighbors in our community who need help most. Together, we help men, women, and children discover the root cause of their homelessness, walk through the Transformation Model, build a brand-new future, and share hope.

Deeply and truly grateful

We are deeply, truly grateful for each and every one of the donations we receive to support the men, women, and children we serve. While we would like to thank all of the donors by name in our Annual Report, the list is almost 28,000 strong! The list above includes all donors that have given more than $5,000 to our operating and/or capital budgets in fiscal year and calendar year 2022.

*These things I have spoken to you,
that my joy may be in you, and that your joy may be full.*

- JOHN 15:11

ATLANTA MISSION

Hope Lives Here.
